Front matter
1. The Automation Age and Governance 1–13
Matthew Groves and Yee-Fui Ng
2. The Resurgence of the Administrative Machine 13–34
Julia Dahlvik and Hannah Medea Breier
3. Judicial Review Methodology in the Automated State 35–58
Lord Sales
4. Policing, AI and the New Surveillance Relationship 59–78
Fraser Sampson
5. The Legality of Black Boxes in Administrative Law 79–98
David Tan
6. A Very English Scandal: The Horizon System and Institutional Government Failings 99–126
Alexandra Sinclair[1]
7. Strengthening Safeguards and Controls in the Digital Welfare State 127–153
Maarten Bouwmeester
8. Robodebt – A Failure of Automation or Something Else? 153–176
Matthew Groves
9. The Benefits and Risks of Automating Refugee Status Decision-Making 177–194
Maria O'Sullivan
10. Automated Decision-Making in Australia's Migration System 195–220
Daniel Ghezelbash and Niamh Kinchin
11. The Laws of Public Data Gaps 221–242
Joe Tomlinson , Naoise Coakley , Oliver Butler , Stergios Aidinlis , Cassandra Somers-Joce , Jed Meers and Elizabeth O'Loughlin
12. Judicial Review of AI in UK Government 243–258
Robert Thomas and Joe Tomlinson
13. Artificial Intelligence and Administrative Tribunals 259–278
Paul Daly
14. Global Perspectives on Automated Welfare 279–306
Victoria Adelmant
15. Artificial Intelligence and Public Administration in the European Union and Canada 307–326
Céline Castets-Renard[1]
16. AI, Public Governance and the Cult of Innovation 327–346
Yee-Fui Ng and Stephen Gray
17. Conclusion 347–352
Yee-Fui Ng and Matthew Groves